The Tess Wise White Rose Award

The Tess Wise White Rose Award, presented each year by the Holocaust Center, reminds us of the actions of a group of courageous students in Germany during WWII who created a non-violent resistance movement called, The White Rose.

The group of students, led by Sophie Scholl and her brother Hans, worked day and night to publish flyers criticizing Germans who did nothing to combat the Third Reich's tyranny.

The individuals honored with this award are active and vocal members of our community. Like The White Rose, they believe that only through participation can we build a better home and a better world for all.

A community cannot grow and flourish without the leadership and philanthropy of those who choose to give back to it in time and treasure.

Thank you,
Harvey and Carol,
for setting such an example to us all and especially to your children and grandchildren who are continuing and furthering your support of our community and specifically the Holocaust Center's important mission of education, in order to achieve a just and caring community.

We are grateful and inspired by your friendship and generosity

The Holocaust Memorial Resource and Education Center and the Massey Family are shining examples of this principle. Kol Hakavod to the Holocaust Center on its vision for hope and humanity that will inspire generations to come.

Congratulations to the Massey Family on this well-deserved tribute for their ethos of gracious and dedicated service to community, which is reflected in their business family culture at Massey Services. From the initial inquiry through the scheduled visit, Massey staff are cordial, helpful, and considerate, especially so during these challenging times. For the Masseys, business is personal.

In loving memory of Ruth Wallace, cherished mother and esteemed nurse. She will forever be treasured for her outstanding dedication to nursing and remembered fondly for the many lives she touched with each new baby delivered into the world.... but most notably, her 3 loving children, who miss her warmth, patience and love.

At Eye Physicians of Central Florida, we are a comprehensive Ophthalmology practice caring for patients from birth through adulthood. We have ten ophthal-mologists who offer complete eye care from examinations to surgery. Our ophthalmologists have subspecialty training in pediatric ophthalmology, adult eye muscle disorders, neu-ro-ophthalmology, glaucoma and corneal diseases. We also specialize in small-incision refractive, laser-assisted cataract surgery. From offering access to the latest treatment options to comforting a nervous child, we treat our patients with respect, warmth and compassion. Every member of our team provides patients with the one-on-one attention they deserve. Our physicians have trained at many of the country's top eye centers, including Harvard Medical School/Boston Children's Hospital, Bascom Palmer Eye Institute in Miami, Wills Eye Hospital in Philadelphia, Columbia University's Edward S. Harkness Eye Institute, New York University Medical Center/Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, Louisiana State University in New Orleans, University of Cincinnati, University of Pittsburgh/Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh, Washington University in St. Louis, Wilmer Eye Institute at Johns Hopkins Hospital and University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. We provide patients with the latest technologies and procedures in eye care, includ-ing laser-assisted cataract surgery. We also offer AcrySof PanOptix and toric intraocular lenses. These are designed to improve vision at all distances, often eliminating the need for bifocals or reading glasses. In addition, our scanning laser oph-thalmoscope detects the very early stages of glaucoma and retinal diseases. We have supported numerous community organizations over the years, including Lighthouse Central Florida, One World and Second Harvest Food Bank. Many of our physicians also serve as assistant professors at the University of Central Florida College of Medicine.
